Cross Country Skiing on the tree farm

The screenshot shows a web browser window displaying the Facebook page for "Bob's Trees". The browser's address bar shows the URL "https://www.facebook.com/BobsTrees". The page header includes the name "Bob's Trees" and navigation options like "Home", "Send Message", and "Price Range $".

The main content area features a post from "Bob's Trees" dated January 18 at 11:36am. The post text reads: "We have received many inquiries regarding our cross-country ski trails. At this time, we have not gotten adequate snowfall to cover the ice and handle the equipment needed to groom and set track. Yesterday's snowfall was too light for the little depth we got in this area. We will make an update here on FB if and when we are able to set track and open." The post has 10 reactions and 1 share.

Comments on the post include:

- Susan Knapik Kelly: "let's hope, their trails are great!" (5d)
- Wendy Willard: "What's the verdict?" (3d)
- Bob's Trees: "We are going to be open this weekend. Better hope we don't get the rain that's possible on Sunday." (3d)
- S-j E Walker: "Hi - any updates? I know we are going to get dumped on this Wednesday." (6d)
- Bob's Trees: "We have a bit of snow on the ground. Going..."

The right sidebar contains sections for "YOUR PAGES" (listing NYSFI - New York Sta...), "CONTACTS" (listing Traci Albertson Carolei, Karen DiZefalo, etc.), and a search bar.
